Integrated Traffic Management and Movement Strategy

The Town is currently finalising an Integrated Traffic Management and Movement Strategy.

An Integrated Traffic Management and Movement Strategy (ITMMS) is intended to summarise and define the existing and future transport requirements for the Town of East Fremantle across all transport modes, according to the needs of the individual land uses, precincts and corridors.

As part of the Strategy, three separate plans have been developed which are the Parking Management Plan (PMP), Traffic Management and Movement Plan (TMMP) and Active Transport Plan (ATP). The information, objectives and outcomes from these three plans will serve as the framework in the development of the ITMMS.

This Strategy is intended to be consistent with the Department of Planning's Guidelines for Preparation of Integrated Transport Plans and focused on an integrated transport model, which includes land-use decisions, parking, public transport, road and pedestrian/cycling infrastructure.

Current Use and Future Needs

Determining the ultimate transport provision for the Town requires assessment of the existing network at the neighbourhood, district and regional level to ensure that it addresses the residential, employment and recreational needs of East Fremantle's community.

The results of the study outcomes and the Transport Assessment have been used to define realistic, clear and measurable goals for an integrated transport system throughout the Town, providing a list of general principles and priority recommendations to be considered for implementation over the short term through to the next 15 years.

Moving On

The Strategy explores the current provision for transport and compares this infrastructure to the current and future needs of the community, across all transport modes, to support the long-term success and viability of the Town of East Fremantle.

Once finalised, the Plans and Strategy - specifically all the measurable goals for the integrated transport system throughout the Town, including the list of general principles and priority recommendations - will be shared with the residents and community.

The ITMMS will assist the Town to implement strategies which will assist all forms of movement throughout the Town.

The Town looks forward to engaging with the community once the Plans and Strategy have been finalised.
